

Now available
from Lakeland Electric...

A new energy usage
website made possible by your Smart Meter.

“I have my Smart Meter, but what’s next?”

That’s the question many Lakeland Electric customers have been asking since the launch of our Smart Grid campaign. The answer is a new “real-time” account information website. Sign up at lakelandelectric.com and you will be able to see:

- A comparison of your current day’s energy usage versus the previous day’s usage.
- Your last meter read total in kilowatt hours.
- Your real-time energy usage, which can be viewed in kilowatt hours or in dollars and cents.
- Your energy usage by different time periods (i.e., the last 24 hours, 7 days, 30 days, etc.).
- The current weather, searchable by zip code.
- Current costs for various rate tiers.
- Your carbon footprint, or the impact your energy use has on the environment.

The new energy usage website – made possible your Smart Meter – has been launched for use by customers who have been early recipients of a Lakeland Electric Smart Meter. Based on feedback from you and other customers, we’ll add enhancements to make the site an even more valuable tool for helping you get the most out of your energy management efforts.
